About the (“other”) artist!

Greetings from me, Jody Joseph, sister of Fiddlehead Cellars' Owner & Winemaker Kathy Joseph! I am a painter and collage artist, and I am honored that 3 pieces of my work are being featured for the second year as labels on a special collector's edition of “Doyle,” Kathy's superb 2010 Estate Pinot Noir.

I don't think it's too much of a stretch to compare making a great collage with making a great wine. Searching out and collecting the right “pieces”, careful placement, thoughtful evaluation, time, testing, hand-crafting, layering...these are all part of the process! And, like a great wine, the end result is (hopefully!) much more than the component parts. From humble beginnings, a work of art emerges - a totally unique experience made of the raw materials, mixed with the artist's love, enthusiasm, experience and training, and sensory perceptions. As you savor Doyle, which I know you will, I hope you will also enjoy my efforts to capture visually the process by which it was made, and the resulting magic in the glass. Cheers!

To see more of my work—both collages and paintings from observation, I invite you to visit my website, www.jodyjoseph.com. My collages and paintings have been exhibited widely in Canada (where I live), Italy (where I paint and teach every spring) and the United States. To read more about my Italy programs, see www.makeartintaly.com. I also teach regularly near my home in Ontario, and at programs in the US. I received early art training in Chicago where Kathy and I grew up, and then in Italy at the International School of Art where I studied with Nicholas Carone, Andrew Forge, Bruce Gagnier, Wayne Thiebaud, and Jake Berthot among others.
